Actions to Stop Doing:

We should stop arguing over the small implementation details once they are completed.

The team should stop fixing things that aren't broken but rather move ahead and work on the next bits.

Actions to Start Doing:

The team should ask each other for help when trying to understand something that another team member has already learned and implemented.

The team should work on new features that are on the sprint plan, even if old user stories seem more pressing.

Actions to Keep Doing:

The team should keep meeting to work in person in addition to scrum meetings so that we can connect all components.

The team should continue to keep in touch via group chat so everyone is on the same page.
